The Guji Difference

We keep things simple by offering organically cultivated Guji coffee beans that hold a consistent story in both their small-farm origin and dependable quality. Our Premier Coffee is sustainably cultivated in the Oromia region of Ethiopia, the birthplace of coffee. This part of the world has been utilizing the same sustainable growing and harvesting techniques for more than 1200 years. The unique terrain of Mount Dara Tiniro, with its high elevations and fertile soils, creates our coffee's perfectly balanced flavor profile, harmonizing sweetness, and fruitiness with a hint of chocolate.

Infused in a rich heritage of coffee cultivation, the art of growing and processing coffee is a primary element in the everyday cultural practices of the Oromo people. They take great care and pride in producing high-quality coffee that delivers vibrant taste, energizing quality, and palpable health benefits.

We work with one local processing station and approximately 450 small farms within Guji to source the beans. Choosing to use Premier Coffee will not only optimize health benefits per serving, but also support the Oromo village farmers who have mastered the ancient art and science of coffee cultivation.
