YOUR TESTOSTERONE SYMPHONY

The hormone balance of the body is a complex, interactive symphony of different regulating compounds. These hormones are internal messengers that are necessary to control and regulate the body's processes. Testosterone may well be the most important single hormone in the body's hormone symphony that aging men need in sufficient amounts. Even small quantities of testosterone precursors can play an important role in hormone balance for aging women, too. It's a fact that men naturally manufacture small amounts of estrogen and women's bodies make small amounts of testosterone. The production of these two hormones takes place in specific glands (i.e., the ovaries and the testes) in men and women. However, in both sexes, chemicals called aromatase can convert testosterone to estrogen and vice versa.

Clinical scientists and the medical community are beginning to realize that the best answer to hormone support may be to provide natural phyto-nutrient complexes which promote the body's inherent pro-hormone precursor production in order for the body to help achieve its own internal testosterone production.

A Botanical Masterpiece: Two Clinically Reviewed, Full Spectrum Botanical Ingredients Combined Together In One Formula

To support overall male virility, Premier Research Labs (PRL) selected the potent ingredient, LJ100® TongKat Ali, a natural-source, standardized aqueous extract made from the roots of Eurycoma longifolia. This unique, patented extract of eurycoma has clinically demonstrated its benefit for sports performance and muscular strength support in adult males during intensive strength training programs as well as supporting healthy cortisol levels after endurance exercise. Tongkat Ali has been traditionally used to support stamina and sexual desire. To produce LJ100®, wild-crafted Tongkat Ali roots are sustainably harvested from the rainforests of Malaysia by using sustainable harvesting and fair-trade practices.

To further support male virility in this formula, PRL selected the clinically studied ingredient, Testofen®, a unique, powerful fenugreek extract standardized to 50% fenuside™. Fenugreek seeds naturally contain over 100 different phytochemical constituents, including furostanol saponins and steroidal saponins which have multiple health applications. This potent extract of fenugreek seeds is standardized to a proprietary matrix of saponin glycosides targeted to support healthy sexual desire and vitality and also to help reduce normal symptoms of male andropause.

Key factors that may affect men's virility:

- Low pH (due to deficient mineral intake)
- Immune stress
- Liver stress
- Poor sleep (ideally, get at least 5 straight hours of sleep every night)
- Poor diet (eating too much fried, refined or highly cooked food)
- Toxic body burden (exposure to xeno-estrogenic compounds, such as pesticides, plastic residues)

*Behind the ingredients in this product is a total of 15 human clinical studies (13 studies with LJ100® and 2 studies with Testofen®).
